Go, Granny, go

Lenore Woodward, who was chosen last summer to carry the Olympic Torch along Colorado Boulevard as the fabled Little Old Lady from Pasadena, took her act to New York, N.Y., yesterday. (And, trust us, if she can make it there, she can make it anywhere.) The 76-year-old roadster donated her red tennis sneakers to the growing collection of rock 'n' roll memorabilia at Manhattan's Hard Rock Cafe as part of the promotion for a new album, "Granny's California Classics," full of vintage tunes by Jan and Dean and the Beach Boys, which composer Don Altfeld will be releasing on his new Little Old Lady from Pasadena Enterprises record label this week. ■
